

General Assembly

Distr.: General
11 October 2024

Original: English

---

Human Rights Council

Fifty-seventh session

9 September–11 October 2024

Agenda item 8

Follow-up to and implementation of the Vienna Declaration and Programme of Action

Resolution adopted by the Human Rights Council on 10 October 2024

57/23. National human rights institutions

The Human Rights Council,

Guided by the purposes and principles of the Charter of the United Nations, and recalling the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the Vienna Declaration and Programme of Action and other relevant instruments,

Reaffirming that all human rights are universal, indivisible, interrelated, interdependent and mutually reinforcing and that all human rights must be treated in a fair and equal manner, on the same footing and with the same emphasis,

Recalling all relevant resolutions of the General Assembly, the Commission on Human Rights and the Human Rights Council on national institutions for the promotion and protection of human rights, including most recently Assembly resolution 78/204 of 19 December 2023 and Council resolution 51/31 of 7 October 2022,

Recalling also General Assembly resolution 70/1 of 25 September 2015, entitled “Transforming our world: the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development”, in which the Assembly adopted the outcome document of the United Nations summit for the adoption of the post-2015 development agenda and pledged that no one would be left behind,

Recalling further General Assembly resolution 69/313 of 27 July 2015 on the Addis Ababa Action Agenda of the Third International Conference on Financing for Development, which is an integral part of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development,

Recalling that the 2030 Agenda is guided by the purposes and principles of the Charter, grounded in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, international human rights treaties, the United Nations Millennium Declaration and the 2005 World Summit Outcome and informed by other instruments, such as the Declaration on the Right to Development, and recognizing, inter alia, the need to build peaceful, just and inclusive societies that provide equal access to justice and are based on respect for all human rights, effective rule of law and good governance at all levels and transparent, effective and accountable institutions,

Recalling also the general principles enshrined in the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, namely, non-discrimination, full and effective participation and inclusion in society, respect for difference and acceptance of persons with disabilities as part of human diversity and humanity, individual autonomy and independence of persons with disabilities, gender equality and respect for the evolving capacities of children with disabilities,

Concerned that, despite the various instruments and undertakings, persons with disabilities continue to face barriers in their participation as equal members of society and violations and abuses of their human rights in places throughout the world,

Reaffirming the Vienna Declaration and Programme of Action, and reaffirming also its statement of the important and constructive role played by national human rights institutions, in particular in their advisory capacity to the competent authorities, and their role in preventing, remedying and assisting victims to find remedies to human rights violations and abuses, in the dissemination of human rights information and education in human rights,

Recalling the principles relating to the status of national institutions for the promotion and protection of human rights (the Paris Principles) and the establishment of the Global Alliance of National Human Rights Institutions,

Reaffirming the importance of, and welcoming the rapidly growing interest and progress throughout the world in, establishing and strengthening independent, pluralistic national human rights institutions, in accordance with the Paris Principles,

Recalling that the existence of independent national human rights institutions in compliance with the Paris Principles is a global indicator of progress towards achieving Sustainable Development Goal 16, taking note of the report of the Secretary-General on progress towards the Sustainable Development Goals,<sup>1</sup> including this indicator, and calling upon all States to accelerate progress under this indicator,

Reaffirming the important role that such national human rights institutions play, and will continue to play, in promoting and protecting human rights and fundamental freedoms, including of human rights defenders, strengthening participation, in particular of civil society organizations, persons with disabilities and their representative organizations, Indigenous Peoples, persons belonging to minorities, minority groups and persons in vulnerable situations, promoting the rule of law, developing and enhancing public awareness of those rights and fundamental freedoms and contributing to the prevention of human rights violations and abuses,

Encouraging greater efforts to investigate and respond to increasing reports of acts of intimidation and cases of reprisal against national human rights institutions, their members and staff and those who cooperate or seek to cooperate with them,

Recognizing the important role that national human rights institutions can play in preventing and addressing acts of intimidation and cases of reprisal as part of supporting cooperation between States and the United Nations in the promotion of human rights, including by contributing, as appropriate, to follow-up actions and to recommendations made by international human rights mechanisms, and in this regard recalling the Marrakech Declaration, adopted at the thirteenth International Conference of National Human Rights Institutions,

Welcoming the strengthening in all regions of regional and cross-regional cooperation among national human rights institutions, and between national human rights institutions and other regional human rights forums,

Commending the Global Alliance of National Human Rights Institutions, the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights and regional networks of national human rights institutions, including the Network of African National Human Rights Institutions, the Network of National Institutions for the Promotion and Protection of Human Rights in the Americas, the Asia-Pacific Forum of National Human Rights Institutions and the European Network of National Human Rights Institutions, for their important work in support of the development and strengthening of independent and effective national human rights institutions compliant with the Paris Principles,

---

<sup>1</sup> A/79/79-E/2024/54.

Welcoming efforts to strengthen United Nations system-wide coordination in support of national human rights institutions and their networks, including the tripartite partnership between the United Nations Development Programme, the Office of the High Commissioner and the Global Alliance of National Human Rights Institutions,<sup>2</sup> and encouraging further cooperation in this regard between United Nations mechanisms and processes and with national human rights institutions, the Global Alliance and its regional networks,

Welcoming also the valuable participation and contribution of national human rights institutions and their networks, including their contribution to national mechanisms for reporting and follow-up, and with regard to follow-up to recommendations and relevant United Nations mechanisms and processes, in accordance with their respective mandates, including the Human Rights Council and its universal periodic review mechanism and the special procedures, the treaty bodies, the Expert Mechanism on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples, the United Nations Permanent Forum on Indigenous Issues, the Commission on the Status of Women, the Conference of States Parties to the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities and the Conference of the Parties to the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change, and their continuing efforts in support of the 2030 Agenda, and encouraging further efforts in this regard,

Noting with appreciation the important role of national human rights institutions in close consultation with and with the active involvement of persons with disabilities, through their representative organizations, including by supporting compliance with the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities by States parties thereto at the national level, promoting and protecting the human rights of persons with disabilities and advancing the general principles of the Convention,

Welcoming the designation by some States of national human rights institutions as national monitoring mechanisms for the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, consistent with article 33 (2) thereof, and welcoming also the involvement and full participation of civil society, in particular persons with disabilities and their representative organizations, in the monitoring process,

Emphasizing the importance of the role of persons with disabilities, through their representative organizations, in significantly supporting the design of laws, regulations, policies and programmes for promoting, protecting and monitoring obligations under the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, and noting in particular the importance of the representation of women with disabilities in the leadership of both independent monitoring frameworks and national human rights institutions,

Recognizing the important role of national human rights institutions in monitoring, reporting to and advising government bodies and other stakeholders in relation to the rights of persons with disabilities, in accordance with their respective mandates and in line with human rights obligations and the principles of non-discrimination, participation, access to justice and accountability,

Welcoming the role of the Global Alliance of National Human Rights Institutions and its regional networks in supporting national human rights institutions to fulfil their mandate and the support provided by the Office of the High Commissioner and the United Nations Development Programme,

Reaffirming that, as recognized in the 2030 Agenda, eradicating poverty in all its forms and dimensions, combating inequality within and among countries, preserving the planet, creating sustained, inclusive and sustainable economic growth and fostering social inclusion are linked to each other and interdependent,

Stressing that the ability of all individuals to participate fully, equally and meaningfully in national, political, cultural, religious, economic and social processes in their societies is crucial to their full and equal enjoyment of all human rights,

Bearing in mind that the promotion and upholding of tolerance, respect, pluralism and diversity are essential for the promotion and protection of human rights in multicultural contexts and, in particular, for combating racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance,

---

<sup>2</sup> General Assembly resolution 70/163, para. 19.

Acknowledging that the promotion and protection of human rights and the implementation of the 2030 Agenda are interrelated and mutually reinforcing, and recognizing that the 2030 Agenda contains a pledge to leave no one behind and envisages a world of universal respect for human rights and human dignity, the rule of law, justice, equality and non-discrimination,

Recognizing the importance of the independent voice of national human rights institutions in promoting and protecting all human rights, including, in accordance with their mandates, economic, social, cultural, civil and political rights, particularly in the context of the implementation of the 2030 Agenda, whose aim is to realize the human rights of all,

Welcoming the Mérida Declaration on the Role of National Human Rights Institutions in Implementing the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, noting that the implementation of the 2030 Agenda is a priority under the current strategic plan of the Global Alliance of National Human Rights Institutions, and acknowledging the efforts that national human rights institutions are making to connect their work, in accordance with their respective mandates, to the implementation of the 2030 Agenda,

Recalling the Belgrade principles on the relationship between national human rights institutions and parliaments,<sup>3</sup>

Taking note of the Kyiv-Copenhagen Declaration, adopted at the fourteenth International Conference of National Human Rights Institutions, on the role of national human rights institutions in addressing and preventing torture and other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment,

1. Welcomes the most recent reports of the Secretary-General submitted to the Human Rights Council on national human rights institutions<sup>4</sup> and on the activities of the Global Alliance of National Human Rights Institutions in accrediting national institutions in compliance with the principles relating to the status of national institutions for the promotion and protection of human rights (the Paris Principles);<sup>5</sup>

2. Also welcomes the important role of the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights as the secretariat of the Subcommittee on Accreditation of the Global Alliance of National Human Rights Institutions and the support that it provides in assisting with the establishment and strengthening of national human rights institutions in accordance with the Paris Principles;

3. Encourages States to establish effective, independent, pluralistic and adequately resourced national human rights institutions or, where they already exist, to strengthen them to enable the effective fulfilment of their mandate to promote and protect human rights and fundamental freedoms for all, as outlined in the Vienna Declaration and Programme of Action, and to do so in accordance with the Paris Principles;

4. Stresses the importance of the financial and administrative independence and the stability of national human rights institutions for the promotion and protection of human rights, notes with satisfaction the efforts of those States that have provided their national human rights institutions with more autonomy and independence, including by giving them an investigative role or enhancing such a role, and encourages other Governments to consider taking similar steps;

5. Also stresses that national human rights institutions and their respective members and staff should not face any form of reprisal or intimidation, including political pressure, physical intimidation, harassment or unjustifiable budgetary limitations, as a result of activities undertaken in accordance with their respective mandates, including when taking up individual cases or when reporting on serious or systematic violations, and calls upon States to promptly and thoroughly investigate cases of alleged reprisal or intimidation against members or staff of national human rights institutions or against individuals who cooperate or seek to cooperate with them and to bring perpetrators to justice;

<sup>3</sup> A/HRC/20/9, annex.

<sup>4</sup> A/HRC/57/65.

<sup>5</sup> A/HRC/57/66.

6. Encourages all relevant United Nations mechanisms and processes, in accordance with their respective mandates, including the Economic and Social Council, including the Commission on the Status of Women, and the Conference of States Parties to the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, and the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, including the high-level political forum on sustainable development and related global and regional processes, to further enhance the participation of national human rights institutions compliant with the Paris Principles and to allow for their contribution to these United Nations mechanisms and processes, bearing in mind the relevant provisions dealing with their participation contained in General Assembly resolution 60/251 of 15 March 2006, Commission on Human Rights resolution 2005/74 of 20 April 2005 and Human Rights Council resolutions 5/1 of 18 June 2007, 5/2 of 18 June 2007 and 16/21 of 25 March 2011;

7. Welcomes the important role of the Global Alliance of National Human Rights Institutions, in close cooperation with the Office of the High Commissioner, in assessing conformity with the Paris Principles and in assisting States and national institutions, when requested, to strengthen national human rights institutions in accordance with such principles, also welcomes the continuing number of national institutions seeking accreditation status through the Global Alliance, and encourages relevant national institutions, including ombudsman institutions, to seek accreditation status;

8. Encourages the Secretary-General and all United Nations human rights mechanisms and relevant United Nations agencies, funds and programmes, working within their respective mandates, to continue to give high priority to requests from States for assistance in the establishment and strengthening of national human rights institutions, to work with States and national human rights institutions in the protection and promotion of human rights and to strengthen United Nations system-wide coordination in support of national human rights institutions;

9. Recognizes the contribution that national human rights institutions have made to the promotion and protection, and prevention of violations, of human rights by exercising their mandates and functions consistent with the Paris Principles, and encourages them to continue to do so, including by:

(a) Independently assisting, advising and engaging with the State, and other stakeholders, in the prevention of violations and abuses of human rights;

(b) Encouraging the ratification, and ensuring the implementation, of international human rights treaties;

(c) Promoting legal, policy and procedural reforms, including to promote and ensure the harmonization of national laws and practices with the international human rights instruments to which a State is a party, and their effective implementation;

(d) Cooperating with the United Nations system, including by contributing, as appropriate, to follow-up actions to the recommendations made by international human rights mechanisms;

(e) Conducting and promoting at all levels practical and relevant human rights training and education, and raising public awareness and advocacy about the promotion and protection of human rights and efforts to combat all forms of discrimination;

(f) Working with non-governmental organizations devoted to promoting and protecting human rights and economic and social development, combating racism and protecting groups subject to particular vulnerabilities, marginalization or intersecting forms of discrimination, or specialized areas;

(g) Preparing and publicizing reports on the national situation with regard to human rights, drawing the attention of the Government to situations in any part of the country in which human rights are violated, making proposals to put an end to such situations and, where necessary, expressing an opinion on the positions and reactions of the Government;

(h) Supporting transparent and meaningful engagement by States in regional and international human rights forums by making contributions, in accordance with their independent mandates, to the reports that States are required to submit to United Nations bodies and committees and to regional institutions pursuant to their treaty obligations;

(i) Promoting, protecting, monitoring and reporting on the rights of persons with disabilities, including by supporting the implementation of the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities by States parties thereto and engaging with relevant United Nations bodies, mechanisms and processes, such as the Conference of States Parties to the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, the Committee on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities and the Special Rapporteur on the rights of persons with disabilities;

10. Acknowledges that, in the performance of their key functions, in accordance with their mandates and with the Paris Principles, national human rights institutions are supporting the establishment and maintenance of inclusive societies, and in doing so are contributing to the implementation of the 2030 Agenda, including by:

(a) Assisting States to adopt effective frameworks to promote and protect human rights, which are applied equally to protect the rights of all individuals without discrimination on any grounds, including race, colour, gender, age, disability, language, religion, political or other opinion, national or social origin, property, birth or other status;

(b) Contributing to building the capacity of States to prevent and reduce discrimination and violence through effective national-level legislation, regulation, policies and programmes, including those that guarantee equal access, rights and opportunities for all, including equal access to justice and participatory decision-making;

(c) Contributing to the progressive realization of economic, social and cultural rights for all;

(d) Contributing to the protection and implementation of the human rights of all persons with disabilities, including those who require more intensive support, and to the fight against inequality and discrimination on the basis of disability, which means any distinction, exclusion or restriction on the basis of disability that has the purpose or effect of impairing or nullifying the recognition, enjoyment or exercise, on an equal basis with others, of all human rights and fundamental freedoms, and championing the voices of persons with disabilities through close consultation with and the active involvement of such persons, through their representative organizations;

(e) Contributing to the elimination of all forms of discrimination against women and girls and of sexual and gender-based violence;

(f) Contributing to the fight against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and other related intolerance, all forms of hate speech, and religious intolerance and its manifestations, including hate crimes and incitement to hatred, and fostering cohesive societies that respect and celebrate diversity and multiculturalism;

(g) Contributing to addressing multiple and intersecting forms of discrimination that can increase the vulnerability to violence and discrimination of persons with disabilities, Indigenous Peoples, refugees and migrants, persons who are socioeconomically disadvantaged, persons belonging to national or ethnic, religious and linguistic minorities and other individuals in vulnerable situations or belonging to marginalized groups;

(h) Working with businesses to fulfil their commitment to respect human rights, in accordance with human rights law, and to support initiatives aimed at protecting victims of human rights abuses, including through the dissemination and implementation of the Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights;

11. Encourages all States and national human rights institutions, both individually and collectively, through the Global Alliance of National Human Rights Institutions and its regional networks, to continue to take appropriate steps to maintain a legislative or policy framework compliant with the Paris Principles and to promote cooperation, the exchange of information, the sharing of experience and the dissemination of best practices concerning the establishment and effective operation of national human rights institutions, including their contribution to the establishment and maintenance of inclusive societies and the implementation of the 2030 Agenda;

---

12. Encourages all States parties to the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities to consider designating or including national human rights institutions as part of one or more independent monitoring mechanisms, as appropriate, to promote, protect and monitor the implementation of the Convention, taking into account the Paris Principles, consistent with article 33 (2) of the Convention;

13. Invites national human rights institutions to include in their cooperation the exchange of best practices on strengthening their liaison role between their Governments and civil society, persons with disabilities and their representative organizations, Indigenous Peoples, persons belonging to minorities, minority groups and persons in vulnerable situations;

14. Requests the Office of the High Commissioner to continue and to strengthen its work with national human rights institutions, including through technical cooperation, capacity-building activities and advice, and urges the High Commissioner to ensure that appropriate arrangements are made and budgetary resources are provided to continue and further extend activities in support of national human rights institutions, including through increased support for the work of the Global Alliance of National Human Rights Institutions and its regional networks;

15. Requests the Secretary-General and the High Commissioner to provide the Office of the High Commissioner with the financial and human resources necessary for the servicing of the sessions of the Subcommittee on Accreditation of the Global Alliance of National Human Rights Institutions, relating to the participation of members, interpretation in the official languages of the Global Alliance, the processing of applications and the translation of documents;

16. Requests the Secretary-General to submit to the Human Rights Council, at its sixty-third session, a report on the implementation of the present resolution that includes examples of best practices among national human rights institutions, prepared in consultation with States, national human rights institutions and other relevant stakeholders, and published in accessible formats, and a report on the activities of the Global Alliance of National Human Rights Institutions in accrediting national institutions in compliance with the Paris Principles.

*48th meeting
10 October 2024*

[Adopted without a vote.]

---